Vue d'ensemble: If you are looking for a stunning townhouse, situated in the heart of a traditional Spanish village, offering peace and tranquillity, then this quaint townhouse may be for you. Distributed over two floors, you enter the property into a large living room, offering ample space for lounge and dining area. Follow through and you enter the kitchen, fully fitted, high quality which overlooks an internal semi covered terrace which is currently used as a seating area, perfect for those summer nights. From here you have access to the first of three bedrooms, this one boasting an en-suite. Stairs lead up to the roof terrace where you will find an outdoor kitchen and utility area with stunning views across the town and the countryside beyond. Back to the living room, neutrally decorated, with a stunning custom-made timber banister, will lead you up to the first floor where you will find two double bedrooms and a large family bathroom with bath and separate shower. The property has been stunningly decorated throughout offering timber framed doors with black furniture, neutral colour floor tiles, beautiful light fittings, and timber framed windows. This property is a testament to the current owners, offering a feeling of modern living whilst still retaining character features. The property boasts hot cold air conditioning, electric panel heating, town water and easy access to all the facilities the town has to offer. Marbella is easily accessible within 30 mins drive.

Viewings highly recommended. ABOUT GUARO Guaro is a typically Spanish, pretty, white village. When you arrive, you truly feel like you are in the heart of Andalucía. There are small local shops, and some lovely restaurants and bars but what Guaro is famous for is hosting a festival called the "Luna Mora" (Blackberry Moon Festival) which is Moorish festival celebrating the village's heritage and is held in the second or third week of September. This is when Guaro transforms into one of the most visited white pueblos in Andalucía. Thousands of candles light up the village during the evenings, and a host of big-name musicians come to play. A medieval Moorish market dominates the streets, and local sellers and craftsmen, dressed in ancient Moorish costume try to sell you their wares. Belly dancers sway to Arabic music and everyone is taken away with the beautiful, relaxed atmosphere and enjoy a glass or two of local wine, or a cool beer. It's not too hard to find the village, located just 3 km from historical Monda and 6 km from Coín. It is just 20 km from the coast and upmarket Marbella, and 50 km from Malaga and the international airport. The town, itself has a few Roman remains and evidence of Moorish settlements with some very attractive historical buildings, making the town worth a visit. The surrounding countryside blooms with almond trees, which help sustain the economy of the village. The village's slogan is "The Natural Almond Paradise". There are a host of golf clubs close to Guaro driving down towards the coast, and in the Sierra de las Nieves natural park you can partake in Safari Jeep Adventures, quad biking, or follow some of the stunning routes by foot. Including climbing to the summit of La Concha, the mountain that backs Marbella. Guaro enjoys the sub-tropical Mediterranean climate, which has hot summers and warm winters. Divided from the sea by the mountains means the heat can soar in summer, but it remains comfortable for the most part. Temperatures are an average of 32 °C in summer.
